

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a dangerous abuse of their position of power.

My understanding is that this "documentary" is nothing more than an extended anti-Kerry advertisement. What would the FCC do if a company claimed that "Fahrenheit 9/11" was a documentary and forced its stations to air it? I imagine the administration would be involved up to their armpits, screaming about unfairness and invoking the U.S. Constitution.
